About Leander

Welcome to Leander, Texas, one of the fastest-growing cities in the nation and a shining example of Hill Country living at its finest. Part of the thriving Austin metro in prestigious Williamson County, Leander pairs a welcoming, family-friendly atmosphere with the momentum of a community on the rise. Home to the northern terminus of Austin's Capital MetroRail Red Line, Leander offers residents a convenient connection to downtown Austin while preserving the wide-open spaces and small-town warmth. Once a quiet railroad town, Leander has blossomed into a vibrant suburb of more than 82,000 residents, with expanding parks and trails and a steady stream of new shopping, dining, and entertainment options. Families are especially drawn to the acclaimed Leander Independent School District, the largest in Williamson County and the fastest-growing in the state of Texas, spanning six high schools, nine middle schools, and twenty-nine elementary schools across Leander, Cedar Park, Jonestown, and parts of Northwest Austin.

That remarkable growth has repeatedly earned Leander national recognition as one of the fastest-growing cities in the United States. With new businesses and residential growth showing no signs of slowing, Leander delivers the best of both worlds: a peaceful, close-knit community feel alongside the energy of one of the country's most dynamic regions. Leander is a place where small-town charm and big-city convenience come together beautifully.
